

Radio Editor Says Squealing Sets Should Be Tabooed

(By ARTHUR H. LYNCH)

NEW YORK, December 3.—(By the United Press)—Our week of listening in for stations on the British Isles and the European continent, is over, and, as we see it in retrospect we feel extremely happy over the success we have had.

An international venture of this sort could only be a complete success if every listener on the North American continent could pick up at will any one of the European stations and hold it as long as he desired. That is a possibility for the future and judged by such standards, our success was not complete.

One of the hundreds of thousands of listeners from Alaska to South America have an idea of the difficulty experienced in bringing about what results were achieved. It was necessary to make arrangements in Europe and this was done through the co-operation of Hugh S. Pope, editor of the Wireless World and Radio Review who enlisted the aid of the British Broadcasting Company, controlling the stations on the British Isles. He also was responsible for the part taken by the continental.

Realizing the importance of the contemplated tests, the Radio Trade Association wrote, telephoned and telegraphed the American broadcasters, as did Paul H. Klugh, executive secretary of the National Association of Broadcasters, while whole-hearted co-operation was given by the press of the country, telegraph companies and even the United States army for the radio facilities of Mitchell Field, Long Island, were put at our disposal by Major William Hensley, Jr.

But best of all, was the co-operation given us by the broadcasting stations of North America. Without their full co-operation and prompt signing off each night, attempts at the test would have been futile indeed. The British officials no doubt have the same high praise to bestow upon the broadcasters co-operating with them.

European stations have been heard in nearly every section of the North American continent—not complete programs, it is true, nor without difficulty—but heard and recognized. Possibly higher power in Europe would have been of assistance, but we will leave that for the time to the engineers, many of whom are devoting much time to it.

The greatest single obstacle yet to be overcome is the radiating receiver, 90 per cent of the thousands of reports we have already received complain about this part of the ether. If for no other reason our tests have succeeded in demonstrating the great harm done to the industry by penny wise and pound foolish manufacturers and dealers who sell "squealers."

Congress Hears Suggestions Then Plunges Into Work

The text of President Coolidge's message to congress, will be found on Page Four.

(By WILLIAM J. LOSH)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, D. C., December 3.—(By the United Press)—Amid unaccustomed quiet and total absence of ceremony, the annual message of the president of the United States was read to the two houses of congress today for the first time in twelve years, with a single unavoidable exception.

The appeal of President Coolidge for further economy in government to permit of more tax reduction fell from the practiced lips of the reading clerk of the senate and house in stilted manner, while senators and representatives sat quietly in their chairs.

There were no flood galleries to applaud each popular statement in the message and there was little applause on the floor. The usual hubbub of cheering which has greeted each appearance of a president in the rostrum of the house to deliver his report on the state of the Union, was noticeably absent.

Not since Woodrow Wilson was forced in 1920 to break his custom of reading his message in person, because of being bedridden, has there been such a break in the annual pageant of the president reading his message with the brilliant gatherings in the diplomatic and official boxes along the gallery rail, and the change today seemed to be too much for the legislators.

When the hour-long reading had been completed, there was the usual scramble for the smoking rooms behind each chamber and the business of the day proceeded as usual, with an almost deserted chamber.

The president's message emphasized the need of economy above all else. "The government can do more to remedy the economic ills of the people by a system of rigid economy in public expenditure than can be accomplished through any other action," he said, pointing out that rigid economy by the present session of congress will pave the way during the next fiscal year for a reduction of taxes.

Highlights of President's Address To Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—High lights in President Coolidge's annual message are:

"The nation holds a position unsurpassed in all former human experience."

"If we will but apply ourselves industriously and honestly we have ample powers with which to meet our problems and provide for their speedy solution."

"Perhaps the most important work that this session of Congress can do is to continue a policy of economy and further reduce the cost of government, in order that we may have a reduction of taxes for the next fiscal year."

"Anybody can reduce taxes, but it is not so easy to stand in the gap and resist the passage of increasing appropriation bills which would make tax reduction impossible."

"At no period in the past 12 years have our foreign relations been in such a satisfactory condition as they are at the present time."

"Everyone knows that the great need of the farmer is markets. The country is not suffering on the side of production. Almost the entire difficulty is on the side of distribution."

"Consolidation (of railroads) will assure not only a great element of competition as to service but it will afford economy of operation, greater stability in railway earnings and more economical financing."

"Any nation undertaking to maintain a military establishment with aggressive and imperialistic designs will find itself severely handicapped in the economic development of the world."

"I believe thoroughly in the Army and Navy, in adequate defense and preparation. But I am opposed to any policy of competition in building and maintaining land or sea armaments."

"The situation in our own country and all over the world is one that can be improved only by hard work and self denial."

"Whatever its defects, the merit system is certain to be preferred to the spoils system."

"Our Country wants no pretenses, it wants no vagaries, it is determined to advance in an orderly, sound and common sense way. It does not propose to abandon the theory of the declaration that the people have inalienable rights which no majority and no power of government can destroy. It is convinced that it will be impossible for the people to provide their own government unless they continue to own their own property."

"I want the people of all the earth to see in the American flag the symbol of government which intends no oppression at home and no aggressions abroad, which in the spirit of a common brotherhood provides assistance in time of distress."

President Trying to Get Acquainted With Congressmen By Holding Early Morning Breakfast Parties

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)
Copyright, 1924, By The Times Publishing Company

WASHINGTON, December 3.—"Breakfast at eight at the White House" may some day make the reporters wake up early with a suspicion that such unaccustomed beginnings of a Congressional day are really significant of something important, but thus far the only meaning of the conferences between President Coolidge and the Republican members of the United States Senate is social, get-together, personal and a gesture of the anxiety of the executive to get on terms of fellowship with his party colleagues.

Mr. Coolidge sat nearly three years on the rostrum of the Senate and gazed steadily into the faces of the Senators, but said nothing himself. Beyond the social visits, the White House breakfasts have developed no initiatives on legislative matters by the President. In other days not so long ago a Roosevelt might have punctuated the conversation with astute comments on everything going on in the official and unofficial world.

Mr. Wilson would have disclosed in digressing phrases a serious attitude toward party leadership or initiative. A Harding would have told the latest story he had heard or enjoyed the telling of the new ones by his visitors.

Mr. Coolidge is different. First of all he has his conferences at breakfast at the incomprehensible hour of eight. But if the truth were known it is the most convenient hour of the whole day for members of Congress and for the President. Nine-tenths of the members of Congress are up at breakfast between seven and eight o'clock. If the President would invite them to lunch it would conflict with the meeting hour of Congress which is noon, and (Continued on Page Eight)

Youth's Gang Behind Attacks On Women

CHICAGO, December 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Eight youths of from 16 to 27 years were arrested last night in connection with a recent series of attacks on women.

Partial confessions were obtained, the police said.

In each case the woman was kidnapped after her escort had been slugged. One of the victims, Mrs. Frances Palmer, married by her father the day after the attack, did three weeks later. The band was responsible for more than 160 robberies since July, Joseph Savage, assistant prosecutor said. He attributed to their actions the fatal shootings Saturday of Policeman Perren, member of a detective bureau bank cashier when the officers sought in question. Stewart testified he mistook the automobile load of officers for the band of attackers and shot when he was halted.

Christmas Carol 100 Years Old

DRESDEN, December 3.—(By the Associated Press)—"Silent Night, Holy Night," for many decades, the favorite Christmas carol of the whole German-speaking world, will be sung with particular devotion this Christmas, owing to the fact that it was just one hundred years ago that this universal song was first sung at a Yuletide celebration.

While school children had before have sung and loved the carol without knowing anything about its origin, they will this year be taught two names which have almost sunk into oblivion, those of Pastor Mohr and Teacher Gruber, of Salzburg, Austria, who respectively composed the words and the music.

In a number of churches and Sunday schools special ceremonies will be conducted in connection with the singing of the carol.

PHYSICIAN HELD IN DEATH OF HIS WIFE

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., December 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The task of finding a motive for the slaying of Mrs. George T. Edwards, wife of a prominent physician, at their home in Fairfield, a suburb, faced Jefferson county authorities today. Meanwhile Dr. Edwards was in custody in an Euseby Hospital with a badly wounded head, which physicians said might have to be amputated.

The slaying of Mrs. Edwards occurred early yesterday. Her body was said to have been found by her husband after her skull had been broken by a heavy blunt instrument. The fumes of a powerful anesthetic filled the room.

Dr. Edwards told the police he was awakened by some one trying to administer the drug to him and in a struggle was shot in the hand. He said his wife had been slain when he was awakened. Police claimed, however, a slash in a screen of a kitchen window through which the intruder was said to have entered, was too small to have admitted a hand to unlock the window. That, and other bits of evidence, which they refused to reveal, they said, led them to believe that the murder of Mrs. Edwards was "an inside job."

A five year old daughter asleep with her mother, was unharmed, as was a small son who was in the bed with Dr. Edwards.

A blood stained pressing iron was considered by the police to be a valuable bit of evidence. Neighbors, Mrs. Edwards' mother and others, said Dr. and Mrs. Edwards had been devoted to each other.

Mrs. Edwards was about 34 years old, and her husband a few years her senior.

Tracy Favors Sale of School Lands Bringing No Revenue

COLUMBUS, O., December 3.—(By the United Press)—The next legislature should enact laws providing for the sale of school and ministerial lands in Ohio which are not bringing returns equal to the investment.

"This is the recommendation of State Auditor Tracy in his annual report on school and ministerial lands, made public today."

"The object in this department is to give such care to the school and ministerial lands as will result in their proper protection and the best possible returns to the schools and religious societies in which they belong," the report said.

"The disposition of what has been practically waste lands, so far as resultant revenues to the funds are concerned, is being considered with those in charge of the establishment of game preserves and reforestation."

"Lands that produce a net income of less than their value in some other form are being investigated and changes made for their better investment."

The report did not intimate what specific lands the department believed could be bettered by changes.

Five Shivering Children Need Clothing

In a Portsmouth home five little children are shivering with cold because they have no bedding and very little clothing.

The mother is away at work all day long, and for her labor she receives less than forty dollars a month. The little folks—the oldest is a mere child of seven or eight years—have no one to prepare them any warm food during the hours while the mother is away, and the little eight-year-old has to take all the care of the tiny baby, who can only crawl.

And they are cold.

Surely, somewhere in Portsmouth there are stores of bedding that are seldom used. And somewhere in Portsmouth there must be a generous housewife who will say, "Well, I'll get out my new bedding now and we'll give this that we have been using to these shivering children."

A telephone call to 1715 to inform the Bureau of Community Service will bring the donor of the bedding any further information wanted.

Youth, Wounded When Dog Knocked Over Gun While Hunting, Dies in Local Hospital

Victor Cadwallader, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cadwallader of the Shawnee neighborhood near Wamskeville, Adams county, seriously wounded Tuesday morning, November 25, while rabbit hunting, when the contents of a shot gun lodged in his right hip, died last night in Mercy hospital, where he had remained in a dangerous condition since he was brought to this city.

about midnight of the same day he was wounded.

The lad was wounded about nine o'clock in the morning when his dog knocked his gun down as it rested against a tree. The youth was not found until about two o'clock in the afternoon and the exposure he suffered from the time he was wounded until he received medical attention is thought to have resulted in infection that finally cost him his life.

The wounded lad, greatly weakened from the loss of blood, was found in the woods by his sister Nellie, 8 years old.

The youth's condition was such that he could not undergo an operation for amputation of the leg. He was unconscious most of the time he was in the hospital.

AGED CITIZEN RESCUED FROM FLAMES WHICH SOON WIPED OUT KNAUFF HOME

Mr. Knauff, almost helpless from infirmities had a miraculous escape from perishing in the flames, being rescued from the burning house just in time by neighbors who responded to an alarm sounded by another member of the family. The fire caused a loss of approximately $3,000, partially covered by insurance.

It is thought the fire started from a defective flue.

'Twould Be a Mistake To Close Local Game Preserve

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—A. C. DEATH OF W. R. FEE DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES, OFFICIALS DECLARE AFTER RIGID INVESTIGATION

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Dec. 3.—An unanimous agreement was reached last night by authorities investigating the mystery death of William R. Fee, the Alhambra and San Gabriel bank president, whose body was found a week ago in Little Creek Canyon, that he died from natural causes.

George H. Johnson, district attorney, made the announcement of the findings at the conclusion of a conference at which were present J. Clarke Sellers, an internationally known criminologist; Sheriff W. A. Shay; and Deputy District Attorney M. O. Hert.

The report of Dr. A. F. Wagner, autopsy surgeon, of Los Angeles county, on the second autopsy, was made public. Dr. Wagner declared that Fee died from, or could have died from, "acute congestion of the left lung, with partial collapse of same, together with acute dilation of the heart." He said he was making his report independently of the small fracture of the temple bone found by four San Bernardino surgeons and described by them at the coroner's inquest. The fracture was stained by rust, not blood as originally believed. He said rigor mortis had not set in at the time the body first touched the ground as evidenced by the fact that Fee's nose inquest as the cause of death. The evidence of this fracture was cut away in a twisted by its pressure against the ground and that there were deep furrows in the face where it lay against twigs, not be explained.

Dr. Wagner said the lung and heart attack could have been brought about by "mental excitement."

VOLTA'S DISCOVERY

No Medicines to Take, Results Guaranteed by Local Druggists.

An amazing new treatment for rheumatism has been received in this country from Italy. This new scientific discovery promises to put an end to terrible rheumatic suffering in even the most stubborn cases.

Alessandro Volta, the well-known Italian physicist, for whom the electric cell has been named, discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients in the form of fine powder that is intended to be a powerful and active rheumatic solvent. This discovery he has called Volta. It is not to be taken internally but is shaken into the shoes or stockings and is intended to be absorbed in the blood through the pores of the feet. The absorption is aided by the fact that the soles of the feet contain over 100 times the number of pores found in any other part of the body.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta Powder, both in this country and in Italy, that the American druggists have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with an unqualified guarantee of relief from the use of the very first package or your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this remarkable scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists: Stewart's Cut Rate Store, Waukegan, Ill., Fisher & Strickland, Advertisement.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN By BEAUNASH Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion Copyright 1924 by C. E. WY.

When The Clock Strikes Six

Inky worsted and snowy linen rest upon far more than the mere matter of polite practice and social obligation. The man who puts on evening dress seems to put off the cares of the day with his day clothes. He is conscious of the glow and the thrill of "life's finer moments." He detaches himself from the pursuit of currency. He carries himself more proudly and upstandingly. He enters into the fun of a function with sharpened zest, because he knows he looks a part of, not apart from, his refined environment.

All this is sense, not sentiment. If you were ever so luckless as to be the only man at a formal affair who turned up in a lounge suit, whilst your fellow-guests wore evening suits, you well recall how, like Poe's raven, quoth you, "Nevermore!" In England, it is the custom to "dress for dinner," whether it be partaken of at home or away from it. The Englishman goes in for this not merely because it is etiquette, but for the refreshing and energizing influence of "a tub and a change" after a day's dull round.

Therefore, do not regard putting on evening clothes occasionally as a bore and high-brow social duty. Look upon it rather as a courtly practice that lifts the wearer out of slough of this work-a-day world into the realm of gentle and gracious leisure. Don't deny yourself the finest pleasure of dress—to be irreproachably turned out in black-and-white at night.

The one-button Tuxedo suit, pictured in the accompanying sketch, reveals the revived wide, peaked coat-lapels of the type now so fashionable. These are decidedly curved in contour. The front is rounded off, the single button affording just enough anchorage to hold the garment firmly in place. The shoulders are broad. The lapels are faced with satin or dull ribbed gros-grain silk. The ventless coat is kept snug across the hips to render it more shapely. The trousers are straight-lapelled, full-draped and taped or braided down the outer seams.

Besides plain unfinished worsted, you may choose more ornate effects in black-upon-black, such as herringbones, harrathens, birds'-eyes, file patterns, corded weaves, shadow checks and the like. These add life to an otherwise dull cloth.

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR UTILITIES

One Man on the Streets Makes Public Opinion

No matter how good our service is, there is usually one man on your street who is forever finding fault with it.

You know the man we mean.

He is a good fellow at heart and talks sanely enough on other subjects, but when he discusses this company's service he loses his balance completely.

What we regret most, however, is not that this man is sore against us, but that his attacks are permitted to go unchallenged by his friends who are also our friends.

In other words, you and scores of other satisfied customers in the same neighborhood take good service for granted, accept it, and say nothing about it.

With lips sealed, you innocently give this man an encouraging slap on the back.

We value your good will, everyone's good will.

This company is your company. Now let us all work together to convert this man from a knocker into a booster.

Recommends Consolidation of Railroads for Better Service And More Economical Operation

Anything can reduce taxes, but it is not so easy to stand in the gap and resist the passage of increasing appropriation bills which would make any reduction impossible. It will be necessary to increase the strength of the attachment to reduced taxation by the power with which increased appropriations are resisted. BIG TEN SCHEDULE MAKERS WILL DRAFT 1925 FOOTBALL SCHEDULES IN CHICAGO

Intersectional Games Likely to Be Approved

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The schedule makers of the Western Conference are to hold here Friday and Saturday, when the football dates for 1925 will be agreed upon, promises to be an interesting scramble for games.

In addition to the schedule makers, the Big Ten coaches and faculty representatives will meet to vote on amendments to the rules governing intersectional games.

There are more east-west intersectional games scheduled for the 1925 season of the "big ten" than in any ordinary year. Chicago, Michigan, Illinois and Ohio all have intersectional contests booked. Illinois in addition to meeting Pennsylvania may attempt to arrange a game with the undefeated Navy team, according to reports from Champaign.

Chicago also will meet Penna. last season, while Ohio State has been dickered for a game with a leading eastern eleven. Michigan already has booked a game with the navy, while Wisconsin hopes to arrange a game with Cornell or Dartmouth.

The athletic directors will go into sessions morning and afternoon on Friday, while the baseball, basketball and track coaches will meet Saturday afternoon to draft a schedule. The faculty representatives will meet on Friday and probably Sunday.

How Is Still Continue

To Patronize The People's Store Sale

Naturally being a little inquisitive and wondering just how the Times advertising would effect the result, we strolled to the People's Store and honestly we were surprised at the continual stream of people going in and most noticeable was that everybody leaving the store was loaded down and with a smile on their face.

We believe the People's store has gained many thousands of friends in staging this much appreciated event at this time of year giving such really wonderful values on all items that are needed at this time of year just as the holiday season approaches.

We understand this sale will continue only three more days, ending Saturday. I know from my experience I'll be sorry to see the end and I believe in saying so I am expressing the opinion of thousands of others in Portsmouth and vicinity.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am quite a reader of your column, and right here, I must congratulate you on a great many of your answers, and so far as I am concerned, I must say you are naturally gifted with dialectics. Now, Dolly, here is the question, and I feel quite sure I have a great deal of company along these lines. Answer in a safe and sane manner, as they are undoubtedly up in the air as I am. For instance, an officer will catch some individual. He may be quite well-to-do, but most generally poor, with beer or whisky, or, as the officers call it, "moonshine." Now, as a general rule, the one that is caught is actually harming no one on earth but himself. The man is caught, has a trial, and is fined any amount from $50.00 to $100.00, and then some, and with that jail sentence of from a week to a year, and then some more. On the other hand, let's stop, look and listen to what is going on. Here is a man running an automobile at break-neck speed through the streets of our city, regardless of the number of innocent people that he kills and maims for life. This is going on every day right here on our public streets, and it is going on in the lawless district two-thirds of the machine driven have utterly no respect or care whether they injure people or not, and many times fatally. Occasionally one of these people are arrested. They also have a trial, and are fined a paltry sum of a few dollars for disorderly conduct, and prohibited from running a machine for a month or so. Why can't the laws be more just? Why not jail a few of the automobile owners, fine them heavily, and those who commit murder let them be tried accordingly, and stop hounding those who want their alcohol occasionally? A FRIEND. I agree with you that speeders and reckless drivers should be given the "hilt," and until this is done, we will continue to have accidents, fatal and otherwise. I also think that the highways leading into our city should be patrolled by State Police, who have no favorites and who are not afraid to arrest traffic offenders. Of course, we will have to make allowances for unavoidable accidents, as pedestrians often get reckless and step out in the street in front of machines which have the right of way and which are going at a moderate rate of speed. Dear Dolly—About a month ago I returned a package to a mail-order house without having it insured, and they have informed me that they did not receive the package. Isn't there some place in Washington where I could write to find out about this and try and locate it? —THANK YOU.

There is no place in Washington but the "Dead-Letter Office," and I am sure your package is not there. If it got lost somewhere along the line must have taken it, or delivered it to the wrong place. About the only thing you can do is to have the post office here trace it for you, but that will be pretty hard to do when they have nothing to go on. Moral—Buy at home, long run and are not any better than you can get right here at home. Then, too, you see what you are getting here, and if you don't like it you can take it back, and that's worth something. Dear Dolly—Can you advise me where to obtain a book on the care and feeding of a Collie dog? —DOG LOVER. There is a new book just out called "First Aid to Animals" that might help you out. I would also advise you to look in the advertising section of Harper's magazine or Vanity Fair, both of which carry extensive advertisements about dog kennels and the raising of dogs, etc., and you might write to them for information. The local book stores may also be able to recommend a book or magazine about the care of animals.

SOCIAL NEWS

Tuesday marked the seventeenth year in which Miss Clara White of Eighth street has been the bookkeeper for the J. F. Davis Wholesale Drug Company on Second street. In honor of the occasion the employees of the company met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brandel to celebrate the event. Miss White was presented with a fruit cake baked by Mrs. William Brandel of Second street. The cake was compounded from a recipe that has been handed down for two hundred years. The employees also presented the honor guest with seventeen beautiful Premier roses. With speeches to Walt Mason, Mr. Earl Brandel made the following clever presentation speech: "It is never hard to find true workers, though there are plenty of the shirkers. One has just to look at each corner and in every nook, the useless shirkers are found just as looking around, but a worker that has been true and steady, with a ready smile, has a duty to perform faithfully. Year in and year out, for 17 years, this worker has served. She has been true to her trust, and it is only just what we bring into the light. This true worker, Miss Clara White, to her I present these seventeen roses, and all can see they mean to represent the seventeen years in which she never shirked in her Davis Drug Store work." FOURTH STREET—JUST BELOW CHILLICOTHE

Two Die Suddenly In Same Square; Coroner Is Called

Sudden deaths that necessitated investigation by Coroner Virgil Fowler claimed two residents within a few hours of each other and within a block of each other early Wednesday morning.

James R. Nelson, about 75 years of age, passed away at his home, 2003 Seventh street, and Mrs. Fannie Triplett, wife of Joseph Triplett, answered the final summons at her home, 2033 Sixth street.

Mr. Nelson was found dead in bed by his wife about seven o'clock this morning. Mrs. Triplett died about 5:25 o'clock, following a severe hemorrhage, due to a long illness of tuberculosis. Coroner Fowler found death due to natural causes in both cases. Mr. Nelson having suffered from heart trouble.

He was taken ill Saturday morning, while going about his work as janitor in the Wait Furniture plant near his home. He left his work about noon Saturday and went home, but did not consider his illness of such a severe nature that he needed the attention of a physician. He remained up and about, complaining of a general weakness.

Tuesday he still refused to allow his wife to call in a physician. He retired at the usual time last night, and this morning when he failed to get up at the usual time Mrs. Nelson went to his room, after he had failed to answer her call. She found him cold in death. Later Coroner Fowler was notified, and when he examined the remains he found the man had been dead about eight hours. Condition of the death bed showed that Mr. Nelson had slept away.

James R. Nelson was born in Missouri, but had been in and around Portsmouth for years. He came here with his parents when still a boy. He had lived on Seventh street for about thirty years and had been employed most of that time at the Wait factory. Had he lived until February 10 he would have been 78 years of age.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Ida Nelson, a daughter, Mrs. Susie Bond, of Newark, a brother, William Nelson, of Munn's Run pike, and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Howe of Portsmouth, and Mrs. Lachuda Burt of Akron. He leaves five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

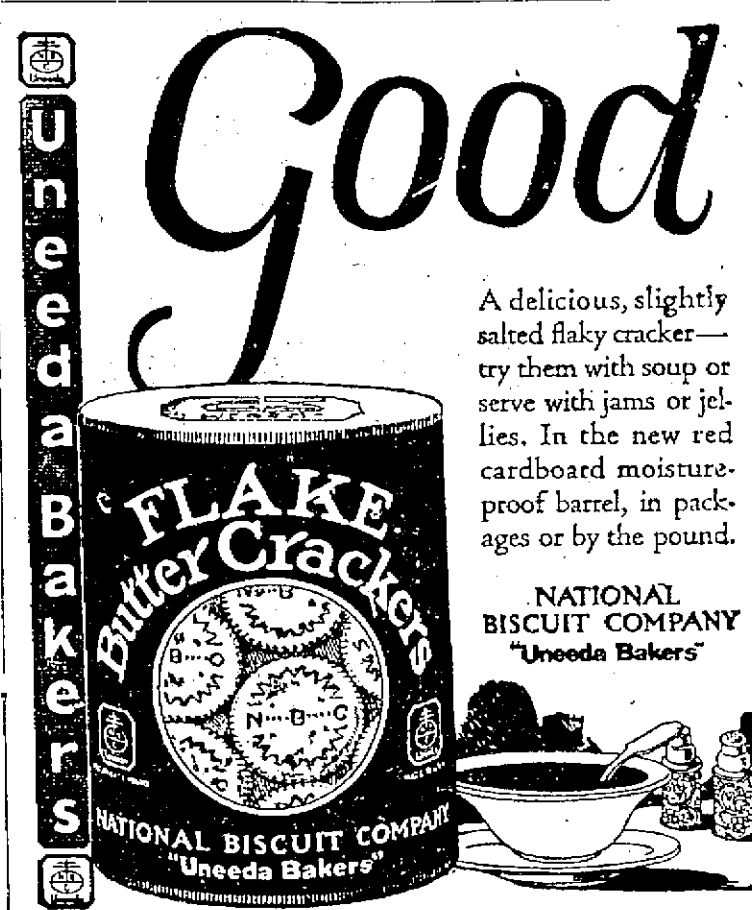

Death Due To Hemorrhage
Mrs. Fannie Morgan Triplett developed tuberculosis about four years ago, following a serious illness of influenza. Although in a greatly weakened condition for sometime, she remained up and about and was apparently in her usual health last night. Shortly after five o'clock this morning she suffered a violent hemorrhage, which resulted in death a few minutes later before a physician could be summoned.

Mrs. Triplett was born about 40 years ago in Boyd county, Kentucky. She was married twenty-seven years ago in Cincinnati to Joseph Triplett. They moved to Portsmouth in 1910 and since locating here had made many friends, who will be sorry to learn of Mrs. Triplett's sudden death.

Surviving are the husband, five sisters, Mrs. Mae Morgan, Fairmount, Ind.; Mrs. Kate Hannah, Greenup, Ky.; Mrs. Sadie Miller, Ashland, Mrs. Louise Jacobs and Mrs. Anna Shannon of Ironton, and a brother, Will Morgan, of Fowler, Ind. Mrs. Triplett had been a member of the First Christian church for about four years. The remains will be taken by motor hearse to Ashland, Thursday.

Meeting Postponed
When only members J. B. Craigie and Edward Westphal, of the Board of Elections, reported for the regular meeting last night it had to be postponed on account of the lack of a quorum. A meeting will be held at the call of the clerk.

President

The two hours thereafter are usually the most important in the Congressional day. If the invitation were to be for dinner, the President would find himself embarrassed by the number of declarations on the plea of other engagements. Senators and members of the House either have speaking duties or dinner engagements made ahead of time.

Mr. Coolidge likes to get up these breakfasts on short notice and he can be sure of 100 per cent attendance if he selects the early morning hour.

Then, too, time is saved. Whole evenings would be spent after dinner in futile debate on public questions. Mr. Coolidge is not trying to tell Congress his views except in official messages. There may come a time when he will need to follow up his recommendations for legislation with personal persuasion but that is best accomplished as a rule by meeting members of Congress individually or in groups of two or three.

Wants to Be Good Fellow
What Mr. Coolidge is really trying to do is to erase the impression that he is not a talkative individual. He is clear and cold. He wants Congress to believe he is endowed with a spirit of fellowship and good will toward them so that if he essays leadership on major questions he shall not be accused of coercion and bossism.

Mr. Wilson rarely used meal hours for conference with anyone on official business and almost never invited members of Congress to eat with him at the White House. He was criticized for it though his plea was that it was the only time he found to give to the members of his family and that it helped him to relax. Presidents Taft, Roosevelt and Harding found, on the other hand, that it was a splendid opportunity to develop friendly relations with members of Congress.

Democrats Stare In Amazement
The Democratic members of the House and Senate are looking on and wondering what it is all about. One of them remarked today on how the times had changed, how if a Democratic President had repeatedly summoned only members of his party to conference he would have been called President of the Democratic party and how the emphasis on partisan administration by the party in power has come back again. Mr. Coolidge, however, is inviting even the members of the Senate who technically are known as Republicans, but who have not been warm in their support of his proposals. Senator Norris, of Nebraska, thinks that the same lines as Senator LaFollette on most public questions, but he was not excluded.

Senator Borah is, as a rule, on the opposite side of the administration but he, too, was summoned. Mr. Coolidge is trying hard to bring his own party into harmonious relation with the White House, but it does look as if Senators LaFollette, Frasier, Ladd and Brookhart will have to patronize the Congressional cafeterias for the President can not let the recent action of the Republican members of the Senate in reading the four rebels out of the party. The breakfasts are for Republicans only, those who have been good and who show promise of being good.

COMMUTES SENTENCE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 3.—George A. Hill, of Cincinnati, today was granted a commutation of sentence by Governor Donahy that releases him from the state penitentiary at once. Hill was serving a life sentence for second degree murder in connection with the death of George Hester, of Cincinnati, January 25, 1915. He was received at the penitentiary March 20, 1917.

REV. CAUDILL, FINED IN OLIVE HILL, SAYS HE AND ANOTHER MAN EXCHANGED WIVES "MUTUALLY"

OLIVE HILL, Ky., Dec. 3.—(Special to the Daily Times).—A man giving his name as Rev. Arthur Caudill and claiming Portsmouth as his former home and a married woman of this place, said to have moved here from Portsmouth were the principals in arrests made recently by Deputy Sheriff and Chief of Police, R. T. Burchett. Arrests were followed by a hearing before Squire Abner Johnson on statutory charges, the magistrate handing out fines of $20 and costs each.

According to Rev. Roy Johnson, of Portsmouth, who came here some time ago and organized a church in which Rev. Caudill was pastor for quite a while, the affair between the minister and the woman had its beginning back in Portsmouth this last summer. Later, he says, Rev. Caudill moved to Huntington, had asked forgiveness in his prayers and had given up thoughts of "the other woman." Rev. Caudill preached in and near this place for sometime and is widely known. He was a friend of officer Burchett but the last time Rev. Caudill was here Mr. Burchett was not a deputy sheriff or chief of police. According to Deputy Sheriff Burchett, the minister "begged like a goot fellow" not to be exposed. The officer handcuffed them together and brought them into town. Deputy Sheriff Burchett claims he watched Rev. Caudill walk down the railroad tracks out of town and a short time later saw the woman take the same trail.

Relatives to the arrests, the "Carter County Herald," a newspaper published at Olive Hill had the following:

"Last Monday morning while the Chief of Police of our city was sweetly sleeping, as it is a fact that he must do most of this of a morning, because he is kept up late at nights watching over us who pay him for so doing, his telephone was rung loud and when he answered it he found that a man wanted him to bring to his phone a neighbor woman of his so that he might make a date with her. We are proud of our 'Chief' than ever from the simple fact he 'understood' the thing and went immediately into the bottom of the affair and within six hours of the time he called they were landed within the arms of the law and we must say got what was coming to them according to law, but we doubt just as to whether they got exactly what was their just due.

"Rev. Arthur Caudill, a man who came here only a short time ago putting himself up as a minister, called the Chief of Police, R. T. Burchett, to make a date with a woman? Think of a thing like that in a civilized territory! But just as the scripture says: 'the mills of the gods grind slow but exceedingly fine,' was at work and they carried out their purpose. This minister was caught near the rock crusher at Highland with a married woman and brought before our city Judge. Rev. Caudill was given a fine which he paid willingly after Mr. Burchett testified. "When they were arrested, Mr. Burchett informed us, the pastor of the church, that he and the woman he failed to understand the method they had been pursuing, that he with the other man's consent had exchanged women and the affair was mutually agreeable and understood by each of them. This is not humanity; there is not a human in the community that calls it such, and we believe such matters are well taken care of in the courts, and let's see if it can't be. A shame, on the decency of the great city of Olive Hill and a disgrace on the generation of beautiful cultured little children which we are raising up within our confines. God is made ashamed on his throne because of his name being used to cover crime; his work is being cursed by such cowards; his power is not reaching us because of such men being in our midst; the cause of his being let down by these actions; the city being made unfit for good citizenship to reside in because of such heinous crimes, and it can be made better only by getting in closer communications with him, and drawing all men closer to him. Better, far better, would be our city had we never heard of such a man as Arthur Caudill."

A Rev. Arthur Caudill, married and with two adopted children, a boy and girl, lived in the East End of the city for some years. The family moved from here last summer and are now said to be located in Huntington. Friends of the family last heard that Rev. Caudill was preaching in and near Louisville, Ky. The Rev. Caudill who lived here for about ten years worked for sometime in a shoe factory and preached at Sixth street and front street churches.

Rheumatism

"Yes! it's all gone."

DO NOT close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. You can get rid of your rheumatism by building up your blood power. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

SELMA LENHART

The sage who remarked that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country," erred in the case of Miss Selma Lenhart, who is to appear on the Wheelersburg high school entertainment course, December 5. In her opinion, there are no better heretofore comments from newspaper critics in Miss Lenhart's home city of Pittsburgh.

Chronicle Telegraph: "Personally, Selma Lenhart is an excellent consolation for tired eyes; professionally she can entertain the most indifferent. She is to return by popular acclamation."

Press: "Last night Miss Lenhart was given another hearty reception. She is highly gifted in her art and will long be remembered for her personal charm."

THE map tells the story. You can make the Gulf Coast trip first, continuing from Mobile to the L. & N. main line to Florida, and returning North on any of the L. & N.'s perfectly equipped all-steel through trains. The Southland, The Dixie Flyer, The Dixie Limited. Or you can visit Florida first and return via Pensacola and Mobile, from the latter the short side trip is made to the other Gulf Coast points. The principal ones are shown on the map.

Diverse Routes to FLORIDA and Gulf Coast Region

The Diverse Route plan of the L. & N. for visiting Florida, including the Gulf Coast from Mobile to New Orleans on the same trip, at slight additional cost, or including Pensacola at no extra cost, will be a feature of Southern travel this year. The Gulf Coast offers so varied a list of attractions—equable climate, old-world atmosphere, modern hotels, beautiful scenery, all sports, truly hospitable people, cooking that is an epicurean delight—that the list of visitors grows every season. And of course, there's New Orleans! Visit the Gulf Coast this year. The diverse route plan makes it easy and very inexpensive. B. and P. W. Carnival Friday Committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club, of which Mrs. Anne Rice is chairman, have been working hard this week in preparation for the Mid-season Carnival, to be presented by the club at Buesman's Academy Friday afternoon and evening of this week, and have completed their arrangements for the affair.

Funds raised at this carnival will go into the treasury of the club, which is organized for civic purposes. The club has a record of achievement which is worthy of the support of all citizens, and the members are anticipating liberal patronage Friday.

Last spring, the club gave funds which enabled the Bureau of Community Service to construct a large sleeping porch at the Fresh Air Camp, doubling the capacity of that institution, and giving many undernourished youngsters a chance for health and happiness.

At a recent meeting, the club voted to subscribe to a fund being raised by the B. & P. W. Clubs of the state as a rotary loan fund, from which girls who are desirous of obtaining an education may borrow, paying back the money when they are established in their professions.

Not only is the club supporting this state work, but has taken steps to establish a local scholarship fund from which Portsmouth girls may obtain funds for an education.

The carnival, Friday, will include cards in the afternoon, and a bazaar and dancing in the evening.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, a concentrated essence that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and kills the germ.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, catarrhal tracheitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement

Time Honored Traditions Get Knockout At Hand of Ohio Dentists In Session

DAYTON, O., December 3.—(By the United Press)—Today is flying day for twenty of the 2,000 members of the State Dental Association, in convention here.

The lucky twenty-four visiting dentists will be taken aboard the clouds by McCook field pilots, during the day. This will be the last time the public or any part of it may have that privilege, under rulings just issued.

A number of time honored traditions got the knockout at today's session.

First and foremost, bread is not the staff of life. Dr. Cope, president of the association, said that bread is the most injurious of all foods to the teeth because all mineral salts and tooth building properties have been eliminated.

The corn cob pipe went down for the count too under the withering attack by Dr. Cope. He said that the famous old Kentucky method of using tobacco was the most injurious method of using tobacco.

Cigarettes are the least harmful, according to Dr. Cope.

Leafy vegetables should be included in daily diet and tea and coffee will hurt no one, Dr. Cope said.

The increasing demand for dental work of this age is due, Dr. Cope believes, to the sort of food the public is consuming. Back in the "good old days," when every man plowed his own fields, planted and harvested his own crops and prepared his own food, the human system derived the kinds of food it required. Dr. Cope said that animals are still eating as they used to and are worrying along without tooth troubles. "Many of the human ailments," Dr. Cope believes, "may be traced almost directly to the artificial manner in which the people of today are living."

Dr. Stanley Smith, of Cincinnati, elected two year ago at Columbus, became president last evening. His successor will be elected at the present session, but will not assume office until the 1925 convention.

New Boston Residents To Pay Electrical Bills in Village

Through arrangements made between the Portsmouth Public Service Company and Russell Middleburgh, confederator of Ohio avenue, New Boston, consumers of electric current for lighting purposes in New Boston will be able to pay their bills in New Boston, thus saving a trip to the company's office in Portsmouth.

Consumers of the village have been protesting about the long trip to the office of company for some time and recently through a conference between Mayor V. R. Bierley and Russell Middleburgh, of New Boston, and General Manager H. G. Bonner, of the Portsmouth Public Service Company, plans were worked out for the establishment of the branch office in New Boston. All bills payable from the first of December on should be paid at the office of Mr. Middleburgh.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Otto Zoellner
Like a bolt from a clear sky will come to friends word of the death of Mrs. Bertha Brounacher Zoellner, beloved wife of Otto Zoellner, of 2013 North avenue, the final summons coming at Hempstead hospital about 6:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, following a serious surgical operation to which she submitted Monday morning. Mrs. Zoellner, who resided in the Wheelersburg community for some years, rallied from the operation and it was thought for a time would steadily improve. Tuesday morning she suffered sinking spells, rallied again later in the day, and late last night suffered another sinking spell, continuing until this morning. Loved ones fearing the worst, remained constantly at her bedside and were near when the end came this morning.

Relatives and friends are greatly shocked at the sudden death of Mrs. Zoellner, many not knowing of her illness. Mrs. Zoellner had been in fair health and it was not until last week that she finally decided to enter the hospital and submit to an operation in the hopes of regaining good health.

Mrs. Bertha Brounacher Zoellner was born Feb. 23, 1872, in Portsmouth, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Brounacher. She was married in this city to Otto Zoellner September 1, 1897, and to this union three children were born, Philip of this city, Robert, who passed away in July, 1914, and Fred at home.

Surviving in addition to the husband and two sons are the aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brounacher, two sisters, Mrs. George Kah of Fourth street and Mrs. Arthur Bode of Gallia street, and a brother, Albert Brounacher, of St. Louis, Mo.

The grief-stricken husband is widely known throughout the county as a result of his activities in the Grange and Farm Bureau work. The family lived at Wheelersburg for thirteen years, moving back to Portsmouth just a year ago this week. Mrs. Zoellner was a sweet, lovable character, a home woman, always deeply interested in her home and children, who will greatly miss her. A wide circle of acquaintances join with the family and other relatives in their hour of sorrow.

Mrs. Zoellner was a faithful member of the First Evangelical church. She was actively identified with the various women's organizations in the church.

Funeral services will be held from the home Friday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. Samuel Lindemeyer in charge. Burial will be in Greenlawn.

(Please omit flowers)

George Monk
Death almost five o'clock Tuesday evening claimed George Monk, 78, at the County Home on Buena Vista pike, where he had been living for about two months after spending many years in Portsmouth. Complications followed by hemorrhages caused death.

Mr. Monk lived for many years on a farm in Fairfield county and after locating in Portsmouth was a water works employee for some time. In recent years after his health failed he was busy with many odd jobs. Surviving are two brothers, Joseph Monk of Portsmouth and Benjamin Monk of Florida and a sister, Mrs. Nancy McGinnis of 1305 Third street.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock from the home of a niece, Mrs. Joseph Parker, 1017 Front street with Rev. Gerald Culbertson in charge. Burial will be in Greenlawn.

Washington, D. C., December 3.—(By the United Press)—The commission of internal revenue may not be enjoined from making available to public inspection the names and postoffice addresses of taxpayers as well as the amount of tax paid, Justice Hoehling held today in the District of Columbia supreme court.

The decision was handed down in an opinion affirming the motion of Commissioner Blair to dismiss the suit for an injunction filed against him by Gorman Hubbard, of Boston, to prevent the publication of the amount of tax paid by the petitioner.

Mr. Blair contended in his defense that under the law he had no other recourse than to make the returns public.

Whether public inspection of tax returns carries the right of publication in newspapers or otherwise, the justice stated was not involved in the proceeding before the court but paragraphs A and B of Section 237, of the Revenue act of 1924, relating to opening the returns to the public, he added, were valid and enforceable.

Should it develop, the justice suggested, that Section 2167 of the revised statutes forbidding publication be upheld by the courts as valid and enforceable, the publication of Hubbard's tax return would entitle him to appropriate redress.

PITTSBURGH, PENN., December 3.—(By the United Press)—All charters of locals in the Pittsfield field who have been on strike, were revoked by the United Mine Workers of America today.

The revocation resulted from the failure of the miners to comply with the demand of the International Union to call off their walk-out.

It is feared the action of the International Union may lead to a sympathy strike on the part of the Hudson Coal Company miners. In this case there would be more than 22,000 men added to the 10,000 employees of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, who have been idle for more than a week.

U. S. ISSUES LONG TERM BONDS
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—After financing its requirements for more than two years with short time obligations, the treasury has turned to an issue of long term bonds to obtain cash to meet maturing indebtedness and carry the government through the next three months.

Announcement was made today that an issue of 20 to 30 year four per cent bonds will be offered December 15, in the amount of $200,000,000. The new securities, the first long time obligations put on the market by the treasury since October, 1922, will mature December 15, 1944, but the right is reserved to call them for retirement on and after December 15, 1934, on notice of four months.

In announcing the new issue, Secretary Mellon said no further financing would be necessary until March, which means that the treasury will be able to meet maturities, including $407,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness, $25,000,000 in savings certificates and $115,000,000 in circulation bonds of 1925, due February 2, from the proceeds of the present sale of bonds together with the tax receipts of December 15.

While the offering announced is for $200,000,000, the treasury plans to allot additional bonds of the new issue to the extent that Third Liberty Loan 4 1/4 per cent bonds, treasury notes of series "A-1923" and certificates of indebtedness are tendered in payment.

EGYPT BOWS TO BRITISH DEMANDS
CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 3.—(By the A. P.)—The council of ministers, bowing to necessity and impelled by a great desire for pacification and good understanding, accepts the conditions integrally and without reserve. It is the reply which Zikar Pasha, the Egyptian premier, made to Viscount Allenby, when the British high commissioner enumerated in writing the British conditions for the evacuation of the Alexandria customs.

The customs had been seized as a guarantee for compliance with a series of British demands, which the Zikar government left behind for settlement when it went out of existence.

The only signs of disturbance in Cairo have come from the students who, notwithstanding the advice of the for-

Jury Secured in Hopkins Case in Vanceburg

(Special to Times)
VANCEBURG, Ky., Dec. 3.—A jury having been selected this morning in the case of W. D. Hopkins, local poolroom proprietor charged with the fatal shooting of Fred Armstrong 17, several months ago, witnesses were placed on the stand this afternoon.

The case will be bitterly fought and the capacity of the courtroom is being taxed by spectators. Hopkins sought a change of venue, which was denied by Judge W. C. Halbert.

The jury selected today is as follows: R. T. Eschman, Nelson Evans, G. H. Dugan, B. B. Cooper, Charles Young, Everett Burriss, Oris Adams, John Black, R. L. Jones, R. F. Muligan, O. B. Reeder and R. W. Allman.

HATCHET BURIED BY SPORTSMEN AND DONAHAY
COLUMBUS, Dec. 3.—The hatchet was buried today by Governor A. V. Donahay and the League of Ohio Sportsmen following a conference at the Governor's office. Those present were Dr. K. J. James, Cleveland, president; V. B. Gray, Cleveland, and Harry Walter Hutchins, Cincinnati, members of the executive committee. Governor Donahay, Charles V. Truax, director of agriculture, and D. O. Thompson, chief warden.

"A very harmonious understanding was reached between league officials and the administration regarding a future fish and game program, and we are looking forward to great accomplishments in behalf of the sportsmen of Ohio," Dr. James stated, following the conference.

J. W. Stuber, editor of The Ohio Sportsman, league publication, said that the future policy of the magazine would be one of friendly cooperation with the governor and of the fish and game division.

Here's Latest In Ball Trades; Two Players for 'Plane

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 3.—An innovation in trades in organized baseball was made at the National Association meeting here today when Barney Burch, president of the Omaha, Neb., Western League club, traded a pitcher and a catcher to Edward J. Tracy, president of the St. Joseph, Mo., club, in exchange for an airplane.

The deal is a legal baseball transaction involving Pitcher R. Luebke and Catcher F. J. Wader, who will report to the St. Joseph club at the start of next season in 1925.

According to the rules of the national association, two per cent of the purchase price of the players must go into the treasury of the association and the western league magnates were puzzled for some time as to how this might be handled. President Burch solved the problem by offering to give Secretary John H. Farrell a ride from his home in Auburn, N. Y., to St. Joseph, Mo., and back in one day to take care of the two per cent.

UNDERSTUDY AND STAR OF ROCKE GETS COACHING OFFERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Coach Knute Rockne, of the undefeated Notre Dame football eleven, left today for home with his star quarterback, Harry Stuhldreher, after a two-day business visit here during which time it is understood Stuhldreher was approached by representatives of two eastern schools with offers of coaching positions next season.

Stuhldreher said that he had not signed to coach any team and was not likely to do so soon, although he intimated that he would eventually accept one of several offers he had already received. He did not reveal the source of these offers, however.

Stuhldreher has been generally credited as being the brains of the Notre Dame eleven for the last three years and is said to enjoy unusual confidence of his chief. Among Notre Dame followers he has long been considered a "Rocke on the field" and the most valuable man on the Hoosier squad.

His home is in Mansfield, Ohio.

COOLIDGE WILL PRACTICE RIGID ECONOMY ON TRIP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Following that curtailment of White House expenditures would set an example for the executive department and congress, President Coolidge will use neither a special train nor a private car on his trip this week to Chicago.

Accommodations have been reserved at the President's direction for himself, Mrs. Coolidge and their party one of the regular trains and the fares to be paid will be the same as those paid by ordinary travelers. The President and Mrs. Coolidge will have a drawing room and the other members of the party will occupy other space in the car.

The trip to Chicago will be on one of the fast Washington-Chicago 18 hour trains but the return will be aboard a 22 hour train that makes a frequent stop. President Harding made several short trips similarly, but Mr. Coolidge will be the first President in many years to take a long trip in a manner. He believes that he can by such methods of travel, return to the treasury at the end of the year a substantial portion of his $25,000 traveling allowance.

BLACK COAT USED AS EVIDENCE IN BUZZI TRIAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Mrs. Anna Buzzi, on trial in Bronx Superior Court for the second time for the murder of Frederick Schneider, wealthy contractor, sat calmly through the afternoon session of the court today and heard her brother in law, William Turk, recite from the witness stand alleged conversations which the witness said he had had with the accused which would tend to connect her directly with the shooting. She showed no indication of a return of the hysteria which interrupted the morning session and caused a recess to be declared.

The interruption of the morning session came when Turk testified that Mrs. Buzzi had confessed to him that she shot Schneider.

"You're a liar," Mrs. Buzzi instantly retorted. "You lie," she continued to scream until court attendants led her from the room.

At the afternoon session Turk completed his testimony. He described Mrs. Buzzi's visit to the district attorney's office to claim a long black coat which was being held there. This was the coat, Turk stated, from the sleeve of which Mrs. Buzzi was attempting to clean some spots with gasoline when he visited her at her apartment on the afternoon of the shooting.

Nicholas Palmer, a farmer living near where Schneider was found slain in an automobile, testified that on the day it occurred, he saw Schneider's automobile stop soon after it had passed his place. Then, he said, he heard a report which he took to be a backfire of the motor.

The next time he looked at the car, he said, a figure in a black coat with a white collar, was walking away from the car.

A long, black coat, identified as belonging to Mrs. Buzzi, was introduced as evidence. Mrs. Buzzi's counsel attempted to show by cross examination that the coat might have acquired the blood stains in handling at the district attorney's office, or in transit to the chemical laboratory, where the stains were analyzed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Usual White, bound for the Orange-Patch estate in Borneo, meets beautiful Miss Susan-Heug aboard the boat. Miss Heug is on her way to a neighboring estate to marry Mr. Lai-Ho, Chinese rubber king, whom she has never seen. A love affair develops aboard ship between young White and Miss Heug.

In Borneo Mr. Lai-Ho and Miss Heug are married. Some weeks later Mr. Lai-Ho visits Corrigan, telling him that white is paying too much attention to the new Mrs. Lai-Ho. Corrigan takes steps to stop the affair at once, telling White to cease seeing Mr. Lai-Ho's bride. Mr. Lai-Ho tells Corrigan that he will absent himself for ten days and that in that time he expects Corrigan to put an end to the affair between Mrs. Lai-Ho and White. However, Mr. Lai-Ho does not go away, and Corrigan sees him on the trolley from the east town.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
It occurred to Corrigan that the other did not seem the least bit pleased to see him and, for the first time, it dawned upon him that no steamer left Jeddah for Luluaba that week. The well of Chinese mining has no bottom! Corrigan was beginning to understand things. It stands to the great man's credit that he succeeded in keeping Mr. Lai-Ho in polite conversation for a little over an hour, so long in fact that it left very little doubt in the planter's mind that the Chinaman's wayward wife had been given ample time to get home.

As he watched the magnate's trolley lumbering out of sight, Corrigan shook his head.

"I shouldn't be the least surprised," he reflected, "if that yellow bloodguard had some inkling as to what was in the wind—and has had young White's bungling under close observation for some time past."

He stooped down to the water's edge to admire the rippling surface, hurriedly by a rising moon. It was close upon midnight when he retraced his steps toward the bungalow. Half way up the slope he overtook a strange coolie going in the same direction. He caught him by the shoulder and swung him around.

"Who are you going?" he demanded in Malay.

"Sana," replied the man, which was not helpful.

Corrigan added his memory with his malacca. There was too much veiled insolence in the coolie's tone to suit the planter.

"Who employed you?"

"Lai-Ho," replied the man with some hesitation.

"Lai-Ho," he commented brightly. "One of your charming little festivals? Are there many competitors, may I ask?"

He glanced aside to where four enormous coolies were digging with Orange-Patch Kabun today," he announced pleasantly, his eyes scarcely visible through the slits.

White, still worrying over those ruthless glasses, felt decidedly handicapped. He remembered, to his disgust, that he was still in that somewhat scanty form of night attire affected by Borneo settlers, but not usually offered for sale by the leading drapers.

"You don't happen to have a cigarette about you, do you?" he inquired with great earnestness.

Lai-Ho shook his head.

"May I ask what time the execution is to take place?" he demanded with a coolness that puzzled the oriental.

"Yours will be the second," came the enigmatical reply.

White was more than ordinarily denied. He had by no means recovered from the effects of the journey from his comfortable bed to the clearing below from the virgin jungle in which he now lay.

"Good Lord, man!" the Englishman cried hoarsely. "I tell you it's true."

The figure came suddenly erect.

"I can't do more than that. If Mr. Corrigan were here he would tell you the same."

"Mr. Colligan is not here," declared the oriental with an air of finality. There came a sound of footsteps in the forest and, as White stared helplessly in the direction from which the sound came, he saw her. Her hands were clasped behind her back, but her feet were free. She came with little, halting steps into the opening, two brown-skinned bearers at her heels. She screamed when she caught sight of White, and ran toward him. Lai-Ho caught her arm and threw her to the ground.

He shouted something in a dialect the Englishman did not understand. The bearers lifted her and carried her to where coolies rested on their long-handled spades. Writhing in agony, White saw her thrust bodily into the earth, until only her head appeared above the surface; watched the soil stamped in over her fair neck, and then, as his eyes seemed to bulge from their sockets, he saw a man whose tunic stood out in knots, passing his thumb along the blade of a sword.

feverish energy.

Lai-Ho turned on his heel.

"There will be two executions," he returned coldly. "It is our custom to destroy unfaithful wives with their lovers!" He strode to where the work was in progress.

White's blood seemed to run cold in his veins. Perspiration oozed from every pore. He struggled like a madman with his bonds, cursing Lai-Ho at the top of his voice. Presently he grew calmer, conscious only of the acute rawness of the wounds the thugs had made. He called to the rubber king.

"Mr. Lai-Ho!"

The Chinaman came slowly back to him.

"Murder me in what fiendish way you will, but be just to your wife. Remember her European upbringing, the freedom of our girls as compared with yours. Believe me, she has done nothing, nothing whatever," he paused, gasping for breath.

"You will excuse me, I know," said Lai-Ho, writhing up his enormous face; "but I cannot believe you, Mr. White."

THE WIDE OPEN DOOR

PORTSMOUTH building associations will report for this year a gain of over a million and a half.
This is a handsome growth, but it is not, by any means, as large as it should be.

This is, in no wise, the fault of the associations. They have most prudently and profitably guarded the funds of their patrons, and, certainly, they have been enterprising in advertising their advantages. That they have not grown more is because so many thousands fail to appreciate the mighty power there is in small savings. Let us illustrate. Say a man is now sixty years of age. Had he started at twenty and made a practice of putting only a dollar every week in any local building association he would now have two thousand dollars from that saving alone.

But that isn't all. The habit of thrift could have become fixed with him and he would have doubled and trebled the dollar a week so that he would now have cash resources of anywhere from four to six thousand dollars. Further than that, if he had foresight he could, ten years ago, have bought city real estate with his savings and see it now worth eight and ten times what he paid for it.

Many a fortune has been missed, because there was no cash to take advantage of opportunity. Opportunities have not vanished. They will present themselves as often as they have ever in the past. Indeed, more so, because opportunity comes largely of the improvidence and carelessness of others, and these are more than ever.

He who desires to be prudent, who would accumulate, has no better way to achieve his end than to begin savings right now.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

AT its last session, except where it came to the very thing Coolidge advised it not to do, the congress was ranked as one of the worst that ever happened which is as severe a stricture as can be visited upon any legislative body.

The opening day of the present session gave flaring ground for hope that it isn't near as bad as it has been painted. Only two hundred private bills were turned into the hopper, about one-fifth of the usual number, and the general bills were restricted to regular appropriations.

Perhaps, there has been a change of heart with it and it seems to proceed in an orderly and sensible way to the performance of plain and fixed duties. If it write fewer measures than is the habit with congresses it shall not have existed in vain. And should it take on an excess of virtue and repeal a few thousand its glory in the land would be great.

A BELATED REPARATION

SENATOR BORAH has a conscience, but it isn't particularly quick on the trigger.

He has just returned, in the last of three installments, campaign contributions made to him by the Republican national committee, from its over-plentiful purse.

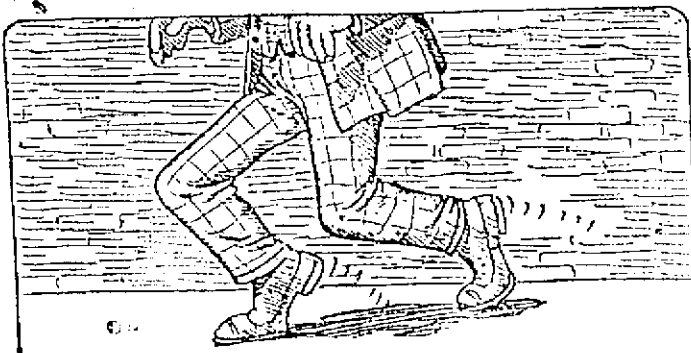

As chairman of the senate committee investigating campaign expenses generally and more particularly charges of a slush fund being raised by the Republican national committee, it, assuredly, was not good form for him to accept from it any financial aid for his own candidacy. He acknowledges that much by returning its money, but why didn't he return it, spurn it, as soon as it was offered? Using it and paying it back piecemeal isn't one whit better than accepting it finally, especially when he must have known, as everybody else knew, that the Republican campaign managers were regarding his attitude towards Coolidge with grave suspicion.

Well may be we are too severe there. Contribution is an excellent thing and atonement rather increases that quality.

General Hines throws off the mask and exults that the mobilization on Defense Day was a wonderful success. Which makes it evident that the doughty warrior is easily pleased. Ninety-nineths of the people of these United States and that includes Cautious Cal himself, didn't seem to know just what Defense Day was, and we haven't heard of any nation being scared out of its boots by it.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—New York is filled with lonely old men. No where is age so pathetic. In the public parks in the summer you see them sitting for countless hours as motionless as statues. Along the streets they mumble to themselves—plain for the sound of a voice.

They shuffle along streets seemingly starting at nothing. In my block lives a neat, well-dressed old man. He has, I imagine, a small income. There are days when he never leaves the rooming house where he lives, but sits at the window and glowers at rocks and claps and uncovers his hands.

In a city of six million he hasn't a neighbor and perhaps very few friends. Youth in New York is frivolous toward its elders. They call them "old parties"—and go on their merry way—leaving them to solitude.

In a boarding house where I once lived on West Fifty-Seventh street there were a number of old men—installment, house collectors, night lunch cashiers and bookkeepers. They had passed the peaks of their lives and seemed merely to be drifting, heaven knows where.

Passing along the halls you could see them through the open doors night after night—sitting alone and looking blankly into space. Other boarders had company, but no one ever came to see them. How they stood for this endless tedium is a mystery.

This isolation is not confined entirely to the aged failures. It is the same among the elderly in the big clubs. From the street you can see rows of them in club windows oddly detached from the rear and confusion about them.

They have money for creature comforts, but they can not buy the one big thing missing in their lives—companionship.

Gilda Gray's theater is almost completed in Park avenue. It is to be called "Gilda's Little Theater" and is a monument to the shyness. It will open with a group of Little Theater plays and at midnight there will be a Gilda Gray Revue—with Gilda herself doing her stuff.

A bright bit from a current musical comedy. A comedian calls for a committed to come upon the stage. Before he has said two words of his appeal two "plants" are there. "Boys, you are little early," says the comedian.

And this is the season for "nut comedians." Being a congenial low-brow, I look forward to many happy nights. One of the delicious bits is a trapeze act. It has a beautiful background of white plush curtain. The snow-white trapeze is lowered in the flood of dazzling spot. The trapezist comes out in gorgeous white spangled tights. There is the muted strains of the orchestra and much preliminary stuff. He finally leaps for the trapeze and ekks the cat and then rushes to the footlights for applause. That is all.

The other fellow's job generally seems easier than one's own. The President of a big New York bank confesses he has always wanted to be a circus clown. And one of the greatest portrait painters declares it has been his life's ambition to be the captain of a big ocean liner.

A clean-up campaign is a-brewing for Toledo. There isn't a town, that according to its size, needs as much renovation as does the metropolis of the raging Maumee.

This big industrial revival we have been reading so much about is right at our door. The Wheeling Steel Corporation, Portsmouth branch, announces it will go on full turn, next Sunday, running up to war peak indefinitely. That's sure fine.

As one meanders along Chillicothe street he just naturally cogitates whether it would be better to have an iron beam, or a brick, or yet another iron beam, fall on his head.

It wasn't so much of a snow, nor a cold spell, but to our way of thinking and feeling, both are an ample plenty at that.

One of the roaring jokes to be read daily in the city papers is the wonderful revival of the agricultural interests.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

Out Among the Big Things
Out among the big things—
The mountains and the plains—
An hour ain't important,
Nor are the hour's gains:
The fuller in the city,
Is buried night and day,
But out among the big things
He learns the calmer way.

Out among the big things—
The skies that never end—
To lose a day ain't nothing,
The days are here to spend;
So why not give 'em freely,
Enjoyin' as we go?
I some how can't help thinkin'
The good Lord men's life so.
—Arthur Chapman in "Out Where the West Begins."

Now, You Stop!
"Uncle Tom," said his young nephew to an old bachelor, "tell me about some of the narrow escapes you've had from the women."
"Boy," was the response, "if there were any narrow escapes, the women had 'em!" —Farm and Fireside.

Too Keel!
As the blushing bride said to the frowning groom: "Twin beds are all very well, but of course there is no use buying them until we get the twins."

Another Name for It
"I see in the paper that a widower with nine children out in Nebraska has married a widow with seven children."
"That was no marriage. That was a merger." —Washington Post.

Boob McNutt says that there is no difference between an evening and a night, but you can take it from us there is some difference between an evening gown and a—aw, gwan! —Pomona Sagehen.

No Finessa
"John, stop! Don't do it!"
"Shut up."
"But you're tearing my dress."
Still vainly he attempted to fasten that last hook. —Oregon Orange Owl.
